

Scotland Memorial Is Proud Of Our Olympic Team Of Surgeons.

Our Surgeons, Anesthesiologists and Surgical Staff Put Us In The Top 10

North Carolina has many outstanding hospitals. But only 10 are ranked in the top 10 percent for providing optimal surgical care. Proudly, Scotland Memorial is one of ten hospitals in North Carolina, and the only one in this area, to achieve this prestigious designation. This distinction means our standards of surgical care put us at the top of the class compared to 90 percent of other hospitals – a remarkable and well-earned accomplishment.

Scotland Memorial is just one of many hospitals across the country to voluntarily report data as part of the nationwide Surgical Care Improvement Project (SCIP). The result is that Scotland Memorial's data exceeds both state and national performance benchmarks.

We salute our team of surgeons, anesthesiologists, surgical nurses and other health professionals who brought home the “gold.” We are dedicated to providing safe, quality healthcare not just to our region, but in the state and country. For more information about surgical services or one of our medical staff members, call (910) 291-7550.

Shown left to right: Doctors John Nobles, Mark LaVigne, Brian Parkes, Harvey Kohn, Paul Rush, Tim Moses, Steve Lanuti, Aikya Waldo, Rick Alexander, Frank Yang, John Smid, Tony Karamalegos, James Taylor, Kurt Jute, Ralph Carter, Janet Harris-Hicks, and Linda Mitchell-Frye.

 SCOTLAND
HEALTH CARE SYSTEM
Improving Health. Enhancing Life.
www.scotlandhealth.org